

I am absolutely and categorically opposed to your intention to change the present rules which will let the largest companies acquire far more outlets and thus decide WHAT information or entertainment we are entitled to. It is a SHAME that 5 people (NOT ELECTED by the voters) should be able to make this decision with their bias toward the industry they are supposed to regulate in the interest of the consumers of this great nation. Shame on you!!! Bill Moyers of PBS kept us informed. Will you try to get the Public Broadcasting Service to be eliminated, too? Enough listeners will be willing to financially support this station even further should the FCC be successful in silencing local TV/Radio stations in order to feed us ONE menu. You are beholden to the industry you are supposed to regulate in the interest of the consumer, without showing any shame or remorse and have been preventing the general public and opposing views from presenting their case before your commission! But you have given exclusive access to the industry. As my personal source of national and worldwide information, I thank God for the opportunity to access BBC World News and Deutsche Welle through PBS stations.

Irma T.
Fuller